Sailing the Ship of Life

Class Ode

Set sail, oh ship of youth,
Upon the sea of life;
Full gallant must you be
To weather storms of strife.

Guide your course by the star of Hope,
Follow it straight and true,
And let your skipper be Faith in God,
With Wisdom and Truth for your crew.
Guard well your precious cargo from harm;
The world cries out in despair
For the love and charity stored in your hold
And the courage and bravery there.
And if you are dashed by the storms of despair,
Fear not the waves of that realm,
For the depths of failure shall claim you not
While your Skipper is still at the helm.
And after the storm, in serenity,
Comes the glorious, radiant dawn;
A fresh breeze springs to your sails, and you skim
Swiftly, courageously on.

Sail on, oh ship of youth,
With canvas all unfurled,
And bear your treasures forth
Into a waiting world.

ALICE ROACH, '49
